Dear Reader:

The Division of Youth Services is pleased to present the 1991 report of Missouri Juvenile Court Statistics. This is the forty-seventh annual juvenile court report. We hope the report will be useful to individuals and organizations with an interest in the juvenile justice system.

We would like to express our appreciation to the court personnel throughout the state for their cooperation in this project. Thanks are also due to the Research and Evaluation Section for collecting and assembling the data and writing the report.

Questions about the report should be directed to the Division of Youth Services or the Research and Evaluation Section, Department of Social Services.

Sincerely,

INTRODUCTION

The following report is the forty-seventh in a series of Juvenile Court Statistics and the 14th published under the auspices of the Division of Youth Services as mandated by Missouri Statute RSMo Section 219.016.3. This report presents the summary statistics of the Juvenile Court System, except for Circuit 7, for calendar year 1991 in Missouri.

In 1991, 52,991 children were referred to one of the 45 juvenile courts in Missouri. These 52,991 children had a total of 76,287 referrals to court. The same child may be referred more than one time during the reporting year. Circuits are requested to maintain a separate identification number for each juvenile and use this same number each time the juvenile is referred.

Graph 1 shows the sex and race break down of all children referred. Males accounted for 65 percent of the youths referred; females for 35 percent. Whites were underrepresented in juvenile court by their proportion of the population. White youth accounted for 84 percent of Missouri's under 18 population, but only 67 percent of the juvenile court population. Likewise, blacks were overrepresented. Black youth accounted for only 13.6 percent of the state's juvenile population, but were 30 percent of juvenile court youth.

Children Referred by Race and Sex

Most analyses in this report are at the level of referral. The numbers represent not individual children, but separate referrals to the court. A referral has been defined for reporting circuits as "any action involving a juvenile which results in a determination, finding or outcome and a written record maintained in the juvenile's name. Multiple allegations reported at the time of, or discovered in the course of, a referral shall be reported as additional violations and not as additional referrals."

These referrals break down into four broad categories - Law Violations, Status Offenses, Abuse/Neglect/Custody, and Administrative. Law Violations are any breaking of the Missouri Criminal Code. Status Offenses are those offenses that are only violations if committed by a juvenile. This includes such things as truancy and running away from home. The category of Abuse/Neglect/Custody reports Missouri children who were victims of abuse or neglect and children involved in custody disputes, transfers or terminations. The Administrative category has been narrowed considerably from past reports. Starting with this year, only Permanency Planning cases and violations of court order are reported for this category.

Table 1 shows the break down of all referrals into these four categories over the past ten years. Law Violation referrals were by far the largest category of referrals in 1991, representing over 50 percent of all referrals to the system. Total referrals to the system were down slightly from 1990, due mostly to the decrease of administrative reporting.

Each reporting category will be examined in detail in a separate chapter of this report. Chapter One presents analysis of the Juvenile Court System as a whole. Law Violation referrals are covered in Chapter Two, Status Offense referrals in Chapter Three. Abuse/Neglect/Custody referrals are discussed in Chapter Four and Administrative referrals in Chapter Five.

CHAPTER ONE - JUVENILE COURT OVERVIEW

Referrals to the juvenile court can come from many sources. Most law violation referrals came from law enforcement. A large proportion of Abuse/Neglect referrals were initiated by the Division of Family Services. Table 2 shows the source of all referrals broken down by referral type.

Boys and girls show different patterns of referrals to the juvenile system. Tables 3 and 4 illustrate how boys were much more likely to be referred for law violations. For girls, the three non-Law categories accounted for 70 percent of all referrals. These three categories for boys were only 37 percent of all referrals.

Table 5 reflects the number of referrals per juvenile during this reporting year. The largest number of referrals for any one juvenile was 19. Most circuits were very near the average of 1.44 referrals per juvenile, although circuits 19, 33 and 41 were approaching two referrals for each juvenile reported.

The definition of a referral included the words “action resulting in a determination or outcome.” The possible determinations or outcomes fall into two categories: those which were handled formally with petition to the court and those which were adjusted informally. The formal dispositions that can occur are:

True Out-of-Home The allegation is found true and the youth is placed out of home. Placement may range from a relative or foster home to commitment to Division of Youth Services.

True In-home The allegation is found true and the youth receives services in his/her own home.

True No services The allegation is found true, but no services are provided.

Not True The allegation is found not true.

Motion to Dismiss The court sustains a motion to dismiss and the case is closed.

Dismiss for Certification The court sustains a motion to dismiss, and the case is transferred to adult court.

The informal dispositions that can occur are:

Adjust without Supervision Involves no more than one face-to-face contact with the juvenile and results in the giving of advice, counsel or a verbal warning.

Adjust with Supervision Involves supervision by either verbal or written agreement and/or restitution or community service.

Adjust - No action No action is taken by the juvenile office other than the collection of information.

Transfer to Other Juvenile Court Jurisdiction over the youth is transferred to another juvenile court.

Transfer to Other Agency The youth’s case (records, files, etc.) is turned over to another agency.

Referral Rejected No reason is found to sustain the referral.

Table 5 reflects the number of referrals per juvenile during this reporting year. The largest number of referrals for any one juvenile was 19. Most circuits were very near the average of 1.44 referrals per juvenile, although circuits 19, 33 and 41 were approaching two referrals for each juvenile reported.

Findings for 1991 referrals are shown in Graph 2. All referrals are included, except for Permanency Planning cases, which do not have an outcome. More than three-quarters (76.3 %) of referrals were informally disposed. The largest single category of outcomes was informal adjustment without supervision, accounting for over one-fourth of total referrals. Only 23.7 percent of all referrals were formally adjudicated by a court. A formal adjudication is necessary to place a child out-of-home or to transfer a youth to adult court.

Graph 2
Outcomes of All Referrals

Graph 4
In-Home Services Providers

There were 232 referrals dismissed to allow certification to Adult Court. Because of the way referrals are processed, these 232 referrals represent only 205 individuals. Juveniles certified to adult court were overwhelmingly male. Only four females were certified in 1991. Table 6 shows the 205 juveniles by age and race.

At the time of a referral, a juvenile may be detained awaiting a determination. Two types of facilities are used for such placement; secure and non-secure. In 1991, 13,515 cases or 18 percent of all referrals were held prior to hearing. Of those held, 57 percent were held in secure detention, 44 percent in non-secure placement. These numbers add to more than 100 percent because 187 juveniles were held in both secure and non-secure detention before a hearing. Those held in secure detention were most likely male law violators. Those held in non-secure facilities were most likely to be Abuse/Neglect victims. A break down by category of referral and sex is provided in Table 7.

For those held in non-secure facilities, there are several types of facilities in which they may be held. The largest number of children (67%) were held in Foster Homes while awaiting a hearing or determination of outcome. Graph 5 shows how many juveniles were held in each type of facility. Graph 6 shows who operated these facilities.

CHAPTER TWO LAW VIOLATION REFERRALS

Law violation referrals comprised over 50 percent of all referrals to the juvenile court system. The ratio of males to females in this category was heavily skewed toward males, who accounted for fully 80 percent of all the law violation referrals. Males were the majority of offenders in every category of violation. Law violation referrals represent a single delinquent act even though several offenses may have been committed at the same time by the child referred. The most serious violation which resulted in a determination is recorded as the reason for referral. For example, if a youth stole a car while running away from home, the major allegation would be auto theft, not the status offense of running away from home.

Graph 7 presents the outcomes of all law referrals. Only 15 percent were found true formally. By comparison, 16 percent were rejected. The two categories of informal adjustment, with or without supervision, accounted for nearly one-half the law violation outcomes.

Outcomes of Law Violation Referrals

Most law offenders (55 %) were 15 years old or more. The very youngest offenders, those in the 0 to 8 age group, were most likely referred for property damage or stealing. Property damage, stealing and assault were the most common referral offenses for the 9 to 14 year age groups. Table 8 shows specific allegations by age.

The numbers of alleged prior violations vary greatly depending on the specific major allegation for the current referral. In general, the juveniles referred for the more serious allegations were likely to have a higher number of prior alleged violations. Table 12 shows the average number of prior law allegations for all types of law violations.

CHAPTER THREE STATUS OFFENSE REFERRALS

Status offense referrals represent 20 percent of all the referrals to the juvenile system. These are referrals for offenses which would not be considered a law violation if committed by an adult. The category encompasses 5 broad categories:

Truancy
Beyond Parental Control
Habitually Absent from Home
Behavior Injurious to Self or Others
Other Status Offenses

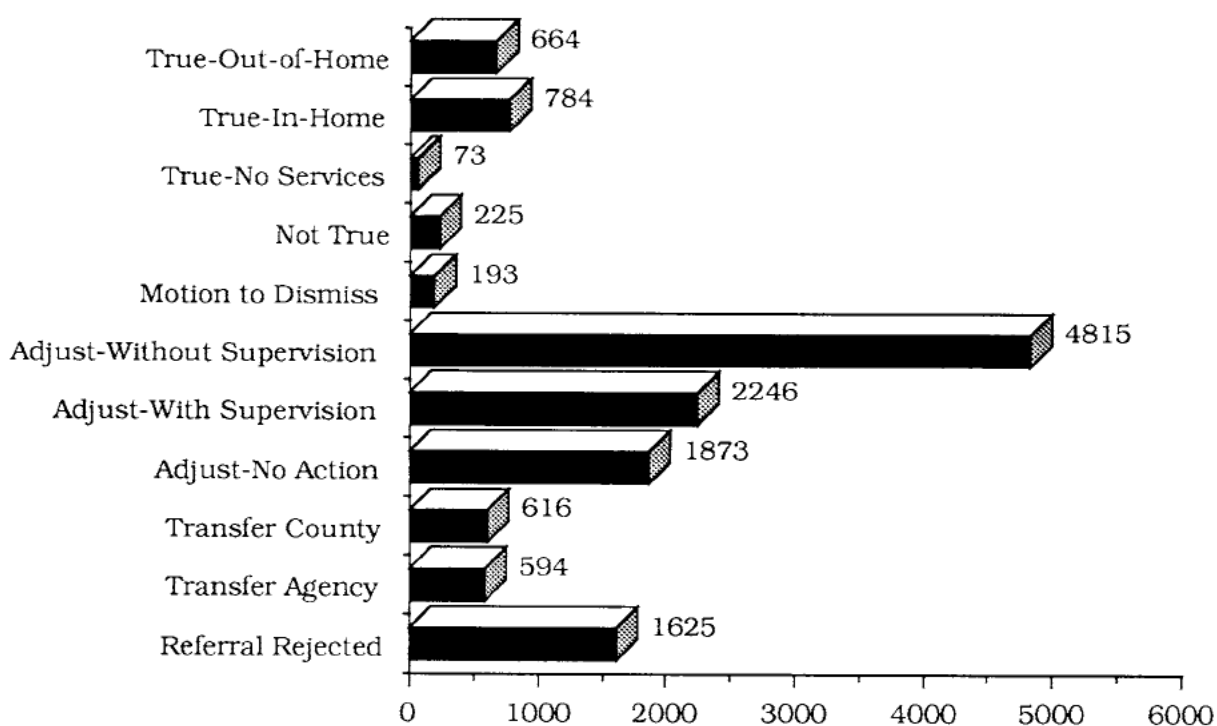

The largest category was for absent from home (32%), followed closely by truancy, which accounted for another 28 percent. Graph 8 depicts the referrals by offense category for boys and girls. Boys were a larger proportion than girls in each offense category except habitually absent from home.

Graph 8
Status Offense Referrals by Sex

Most status offense referrals were handled informally. Fully 35 percent of status offense referrals had an outcome of informal adjustment without supervision. Only 14 percent of status offense referrals were petitioned to court. Those that were handled formally usually received an outcome of in-home services provided by juvenile court personnel. Graph 9 shows all status offense referral outcomes.

Graph 9
Outcomes of Status Offense Referrals

Over 650 juveniles referred for status offenses were placed out of home. Table 13 shows where juveniles were placed for which types of status offenses. Most were either transferred to Division of Family Services (35.2%) or were directly served in Court Residential Care (35.7%) by the individual circuit.

The rate of pre-hearing placement is quite low for status offense referrals. Only 11 percent were held in pre-hearing placement. Of those who were held, 898 were held in secure detention. Runaways were the status offenders most likely to have been held in pre-hearing placement, and most likely to have been held in secure detention. Table 14 shows which offenders were detained by category of offense.

CHAPTER FOUR ABUSE/NEGLECT/CUSTODY REFERRALS

The abuse/neglect/custody category encompasses a wide range of referrals. Children are referred as victims of abuse or neglect or when involved in custody disputes, transfers or terminations of parental rights. Over one-half (53.6%) of all referrals in this category were for the various types of neglect. The remaining referrals were about evenly divided between abuse cases and custody cases. A break down of all the allegations is found in Graph 10. More children were referred as victims of improper care or supervision than any other allegation.

Abuse/Neglect/Custody Allegations

Abuse/Neglect/Custody referrals were the most likely to be handled formally by the court. Petition was made to court in 43 percent of referrals. Another 18 percent were transferred directly to Division of Family Services or another agency without petition. By contrast, less than 20 percent of law referrals and only 15 percent of status referrals were handled formally. Graph 11 shows the distribution of outcomes for this category.

Of the 2,602 cases with an out-of-home placement outcome, 75 percent were placed to Division of Family Services. Of those with an outcome of transfer to other agency, 95 percent were transferred to DFS. This amounts to a total of 4,259 cases, or 33 percent of all referrals in this category being referred to DFS at some point.

Outcomes of Abuse/Neglect/Custody Referrals

The types of referrals vary greatly by age. Younger children were more likely to be referred for all types of allegations. Almost one-third of abuse cases and nearly one-half of neglect and custody cases were for children in the very youngest age group (0-5 years). Table 15 shows types of referrals by age group of the victim.

17 AND OVER	46	74	94	214
TOTAL	3434	7130	2509	13073

CHAPTER FIVE ADMINISTRATIVE REFERRALS

The administrative category of referrals consists largely of Permanency Planning Dispositional Review hearings and Review Team meetings. These are meetings conducted by Division of Family Services regarding placement of children in foster care, adoption placements, and reviews of the appropriateness of a child remaining in long-term care or returning home. Permanency Planning cases accounted for 97 percent of all administrative referrals. There were 4,854 review hearings reported and 4,219 review team meetings reported for 1991.

The only other referrals being reported in the administrative category are Violations of Court Order. Nearly 70 percent of court order violations received an informal disposition. Almost half (46%) were informally adjusted without supervision. Almost 20 percent of these referrals received pre-hearing placement. Most of these (77%) were held in secure detention.
